Food Safety Train-the-Trainer Course

Learn how to use the online course:
Food Safety for Child Nutrition Programs

This free, one-day train-the-trainer course is targeted for school nutrition directors, supervisors, and nutrition specialists. Content includes how to effectively train staff on key food safety issues, use adult education strategies, and incorporate available online course materials into trainings. Topics will include up-to-date food safety information, informative demonstrations, and interactive teaching strategies. This course will also prepare you to train staff to take a state-required Food Safety Manager Certification exam and to meet School Nutrition Association certification requirements. California food safety certification requirements for school nutrition staff working in public schools will also be discussed, including information about exam options.
